

Community Blog

The Community Blog provides an opportunity to exchange ideas, communicate experiences, and offer solutions to everyday issues. If you post any statements, information or photographs, you grant us a royalty-free, non-exclusive, perpetual, worldwide license to use your statement, information, photograph on the Blog, and to attribute them to you. You agree that you will not post messages intended to serve as product, service, political, corporate, or job advertisements. You represent and warrant that you own the copyright in any photograph or other material you post and have the right to post the photograph and other material, as well the authorization of any persons shown in photographs. You also agree that you will not post any material that is misleading (including reviews for which you received compensation or other consideration), infringes the copyrights or other proprietary rights of another (including rights of privacy and publicity), or which is obscene, vulgar, immoral, libelous, or contains language which is offensive to any racial, ethnic, or religious group, is intended to harass, embarrass, or injure any person, or contains private or confidential information about another person. We retain the right to remove any messages from the Blog that violate these Terms. We cannot review each message to determine its accuracy or truthfulness, or to determine if the content of any message contains any prohibited material; therefore, any reader who is offended by any message, or who finds that any message violates these Terms of Use, should report the message to community@lupusresearch.org.